

POETRY.

From the Baltimore Chronicle.
SONG OF THE AMERICAN GIRL.
Our hearts are with our native land,
Our song is for her glory;
Her warrior's wreath is in our hand,
Our lips breathe out her story.
Her lofty hills and valleys green
Are smiling bright before us,
And, like a rainbow sign is seen
The proud flag waving o'er us.

And there are smiles upon our lips
For those who meet her foe,
For Glory's star knows no eclipse,
When smiled upon by woman.
For those who brave the mighty deep,
And scorn the threat of danger,
We've smiles to cheer—and tears to weep
For every ocean ranger.

Our hearts are with our native land,
Our song is for her freedom;
Our prayers are for the gallant band
Who strike honor'll lead 'em.
We love the taintless air we breathe,
The Freedom's endless dower,
We'll twine for him a fadless wreath
Who scoras a tyrant's power.

They tell of France's beauties rare,
Of Italy's proud daughters;
Of Scotland's lasses—England's fair,
And nymphs of Shannon's waters,
We heed not all their boasted charms,
Though lords around them hover;
Our glory lies in Freedom's arms,
A Freeman for a lover!

J. H. H.

It is rare to find in the same compass
With more exquisitely polished versification,
More real poetry, than is contained
In the following stanzas:

Pilgrims in thy journey drear?
Are its lights extinct forever?
Still suppress the rising fear
God forsakes the righteous never!

Storms may gather o'er thy path,
All the tyes of life may sever—
Still, amid the fearful seath,
God forsakes the righteous never!

Pain may wreathe thy wasting frame,
Health desert thy couch forever,
Faith still burns with deathless flame,
God forsakes the righteous never!

From the New York Courier and Enquirer.

POLICE—A SCENE.

On Saturday last, a fellow named John Green, alias Brown, alias Shaw who had been lately discharged from the State Prison to which he had been sentenced for nine years for a highway robbery, was committed to Bridewell on a charge of grand larceny in stealing from the City Hotel a quantity of wearing apparel. This evening as the magistrates were about closing business, a well dressed young fellow with a young lady leaning on his arm, came into the office, and advanced towards the desk, asked Justice Hopson if he would be good enough to inform him upon what charge the above named prisoner had been confined. High Constable Hays, who happened to be standing near, turned to the young man and said, why what reason have you for making the enquiry? To which he replied, no particular reason. I should like to speak a few words with you in the next room. Mr. Hays retired with him, and in about two minutes came out, followed by the young man. Indeed I shall do no such thing, said the old gentleman. Turning to the magistrate—would you believe it, the fellow wishes me to conceal from this young woman that he is a thief, and has been in the state prison for a burglary? Gracious heaven! exclaimed the girl, horror struck.

Hays—Yes I say it; his name is David White, he was sent to the State Prison for ten years for robbing the house of Mrs. McWhorter, in Hudson Square.

White—No, Mr. Hays you are wrong, I was not in the State Prison ten years.

Hays—But you were sentenced for that term.

All this time, the poor girl stood the image of despair.

White—But I was pardoned out. Hays—Pardoned out! Do you know Alderman, that this scamp is actually engaged to be married to that poor thing, and that Shaw the other fellow in prison, was to be married to her sister on Thursday next. It's true, I assure you. They are both respectable girls and live in Brooklyn, where these chaps, boarded with her mother.

White—Oh Mr. Hays! Mr. Hays. Hays—Oh Mr. White you are very ill used ain't you? I should not be surprised if it turned out that you are one of the fellows who assisted Shaw in robbing the hotel.

Magistrate.—I shall see further into this business, and shall send him over till I can examine him in the morning.

White—Oh Mr. Hopson, you won't send me to prison when I have done nothing.

Girl—To prison! send him to prison! Oh don't don't!

Magistrate—Take him away, And

White was taken off by the officers. Here a scene of distress followed; which our pen is inadequate to describe. The poor girl, frantic at the loss of her beloved, uttered the most heart-rending shrieks. The magistrates and officers, though inured to scenes of crime and misery, could not behold unmoved the agony of this young creature. "Do, good gentlemen, only suffer him, to come out of prison to night and go with me, and he shall return in the morning. He shall, he shall mercy! mercy. Good Mr. Hays let him come out of prison."

Hays, though unused to the melting mood; evinced the warmest sympathy for her distress. "Only listen to me, my poor child," said he, "listen to reason. You ought to thank God for the escape you have had, and not repine. Would you like to be the wife of a felon?" Oh no, no, I would not said she, but to be in a prison, only think (shuddering) to be in a prison—and here her distress became agonizing. The magistrate entreated that she would be tranquilized, and calling one of the officers directed him to see her safe home to Brooklyn and to inform her mother of all the circumstances which had taken place. The moment she heard the latter direction of the magistrate, she rushed to the bench, and supplicated in the most piteous tones, that her mother should be kept in ignorance. To this Justice Lownds would not consent; and again directing the officer to tell her mother every thing, the distressed young creature was borne from the office in a state that beggars description.

A SINGULAR INCIDENT.

Dr. Flint in the lecture last week on the Anatomy of the Brain, illustrated the system exercised over the whole corporeal and mental functions by a well authenticated anecdote, which is too remarkable to be lost. He stated that in Berlin, in Prussia, an individual during a violent dispute with his wife, in the course of which both parties became enraged, undertook to administer a little salutary chastisement.—He struck her with his hand a slight blow on the back of her neck. The woman instantly fell, and became apparently, immediately deprived of all sensation, and after various methods were resorted to without success to reanimate her—she was pronounced to be dead, and grave clothes were provided, and some persons commenced stripping the body of its apparel, in order to array preparatory to its interment. On removing a handkerchief from her shoulders the woman to the great consternation of all present started up, assumed a menacing attitude and proceeded to finish an opprobrious term which she was applying to her husband when he struck her the blow that appeared to have produced such serious results!

It was ascertained on subsequent investigation that a pin which confined a certain portion of her garments to her neck, was by the force of the blow—driven through the integuments and spine until it reached the spinal marrow; and was the cause of this instantaneous suspension of all the functions of the body or mind. She was restored to consciousness, and to the full possession of all her faculties so soon as it was removed.—Boston Jour.

"Please to give me a light," said a little ragged urchin with a long "tine" in his hand, to a six feet dandy, who was puffing at the end of a Princeps cigar, as he was walking Broadway. "What!" said the dandy, "a shaver like you smoke!" "Yes," said the boy, every gentleman smokes now-days. The dandy's cigar dropped like a hot potato.

Anecdote.—How do you like my cigars? said Boniface to a wag who had just bought a real Havana from him? "Oh, they would do very well," said Quiz, "if a fellow had a sticking plaster on the back on his neck to help to draw."

THIRD VOLUME OF THE OHIO FARMER

AND WESTERN HORTICULTURIST.

In presenting a prospectus for the third volume of the Ohio Farmer to the public, the Editor conceives it unnecessary to enter into a minute detail of its character and object. These have been clearly evinced since its commencement, and from the high testimonials received from Agriculturists and Horticulturists of the first standing and intelligence, he is not without a hope that his labors have been of some service to the cause of Western Agriculture, and that there has been, at least partial satisfaction to those who patronize the work.

There was never a period of deeper interest to the cultivators of the soil in the great valley of the Mississippi than the present. There never was a time when intelligence could be put to better uses—when knowledge was of greater advantage. It is the era of advancement in the art and science of the cultivation of the earth, and the improvement of useful animals. And he who refuses to keep pace with the times, by informing himself of what is transpiring around him, will lose more than half the pleasures and advantages of his own age.—The certainty of a ready market and a rich reward for all the productions of the earth should be a double stimulant to increase the quantity.

The OHIO FARMER will be devoted to ORIGINAL ESSAYS, and articles selected from the best works, and occasionally illustrated by ENGRAVINGS. No agricultural work ever published in the West has been so liberally supplied with original articles, the most of which have been copied and received a wide circulation in other papers. The culture of soil—improvement of animals—of garden vegetables—of Agricultural implements, and Geology, Botany, Chymistry, &c. &c. will receive due attention.

SILK.—As the culture of this new article of wealth and industry, is exciting universal interest through the whole country, we contemplate devoting a sufficient portion of the Volume of the Farmer to this subject, to give all new beginners a fair start, who may wish to enter into the business, either on a large or a small scale, from the sowing of the mulberry seed to the reeling and manufacturing of the cocoons, colouring &c.

Each Volume of this paper is furnished with a Title Page and Index, expressly for binding, and will make about 200 pages. The first number of the Third Volume will be published on the 1st day of January, 1836.

CONDITIONS.—The Farmer is published twice a month at $1.00 in advance. All notes on solvent Banks received. Payment may be made at our risk, free of postage. Persons obtaining 5 subscribers and forwarding the money, shall receive a copy for their trouble.

Editors, who wish to receive the Third Volume will please publish the above, and forward their papers for exchange.
